Class of 2008 Joins Arcadia Community

Ben Maser

Executive Editor

New student orientation began the morning of Friday August 27 with resident students moving in and ended on August 31, the day before classes began.

The goal of New Student Orientation is to help the students learn about their new environment and to become a part of the Arcadia community. They learn about Arcadia by attending a variety of sessions that discuss topics such as partying, thing to do in Philadelphia, studying abroad, and what to expect in classes just to name some.

There is also a very strong focus on social events during orientation to help new students meet one another.

All of this is meant to help the students feel comfortable here and hopefully they will have made some new friends all before classes begin.

"Orientation was a great experience for me," said

Alexandra Harbord. "I made so many friends on campus, and learned a lot about campus life too. One of my closest friends I actually met in my OL group. Also, because of orientation, I got really used to the campus much more quickly than if I had just moved in and started classes."

Throughout orientation students participated in a variety of events including a dance in the Castle, community service, live performers, and information sessions.

Nearly 400 students participated in community service. These students worked at a variety of locations throughout the Philadelphia area including churches, an equestrian center, a food bank, and many others.

A great deal of time and effort had gone into orientation before the new students even arrived.

The Orientation Planning Executive Committee had been working on the logistics of orientation for nearly a year. This included training for the Orientation Leaders some of which took last semester and for August 24-26.

Down Around Town: Glenside has many Offerings

Brett Thompson

Literary Editor

In many college towns the surrounding areas benefit from student patrons eager to get away from campus. However, Glenside hardly seems graced enough by students. It might not look like Princeton's college-centered arts district, but upon closer look Arcadians will find some interesting eateries and bargain shops.

Glenside has a host of resources that new and returning students can harvest, and in doing so, can get to know the town that for nine months out of the year they call home.

Where to Eat

Especially important to any student is where to best please the appetite, day and night. Following are some eateries you should definitely try:

Rizzo's Pizzeria and Restaurant at 21 E. Glenside Ave.(215) 887-2909

A first great stop is Rizzo's, for tasty Italian-American cuisine and truly excellent pizza.

Opened in 1946 by the Rizzo family, it was bought in 2000 by Dave Strickler and Lou Silver. But the owners have continued the family tradition of quality ingredients and weekly specials. Students note: Monday, Large Pizza $6.99, Medium $5.99; Tuesday All-You-Can-Eat Pasta Night $5.99;

Wednesday and Thursday Buy Any Two Pizza's get a Medium Plain Free. The Wednesday and Thursday deal would not be a bad way to feed a hungry group of friends. Pie ranges are personal, medium (2-3 people), and large (3-4). Try Hawaiian, classic, white, or their Sicilian called "Big Red," made with cheese on the bottom. If that isn't enough there is a range of other classics, from Antipasto to Ravioli, Eggplant and Chicken Parmigiana. And if you're of age, compliment your meal with a cold beer. "When it comes to food there's no competition," says Chrissy, a former employee who drives out of her way just for awesome pizza. So there's no excuse. Walk a few blocks-it'll work up an appetite.

Hours: Sun-Thurs 11am-9pm; Fri & Sat 11am-10pm.

Rocky's Deli at 22 E Glenside Ave (215) 887-3866

Travel across the street to Rocky's Deli for a taste of Philadelphia home-style steaks and sandwiches. Rocky's was founded 23 years ago by Rocky Iannuzzi, brother Joe and Uncle Clem.

A Welcome from the President

I am delighted to extend a hearty "welcome" to our new students and "welcome back" to our returning students.

In the United States' culture, September -- perhaps more than January -- signals a sense of new beginnings. I am sure the long tradition of summers off from school lies at the root of this feeling of a fresh start that most of us experience at this time each year.

For those of you who are new to Arcadia University, this is a major new beginning -- a new environment to traverse, new friends to meet, a new culture to assimilate, and new expectations to discern. Those of you who are returning don't have the same range of senses and feelings, but you are likely thinking about new challenges, new goals and new opportunities for your development.

I guess I am particularly "tuned in" to this sense of new beginnings, because I am experiencing the same wide range of feelings as I begin this new stage in my life as the president of Arcadia University. Over and over again over the past nine months, I've been impressed by the warmth and generosity of spirit that I have experienced in my interactions with members of this community. Arcadia University prides itself on the culture of personal attention that permeates the community. During my interview process, students, faculty and staff repeatedly talked about Arcadia as a great community, and I have certainly felt that during my brief time here.

I plan to spend significant amounts of time during my presidency listening to students, attempting to remain fully aware of your concerns, interests, expectations and achievements. Look for announcements of regular times when I will be available for free and open discussions in the Chat or at other locations around the campus.

My best wishes to you all for a good new beginning!

Help Create a Happy Ending

Kristen Riley

Editor-in-Chief

Someone in America needs blood right now... and now... and now. In America alone, there is someone in need of blood every two seconds. This gives you a 97% chance of knowing someone that will require a blood transfusion in his or her lifetime. Despite this fact, the majority of Americans that are eligible do not donate blood.

This month, Arcadia is giving you the opportunity to help make a difference. Every semester, the American Red Cross holds a blood drive at our University. This fall, the event will take place on Tuesday, September 28th, and Wednesday, September 29th, from 8 am to 2 pm in the Castle Rose and Mirror rooms.

The regional blood inventory in the Delaware Valley is currently at a low status, a situation that could potentially impact over 100 area hospitals and the patients within. Out of all the Americans eligible to donate blood, only 5% actually do. And of those 5% that donate, only 30% return to donate a second time.

You can help improve this situation by taking ten minutes out of your day and donating your blood. A donor must be at least 17 years of age, weigh 110 pounds, and be in good health. There is a 56-day waiting period between blood donations (in other words, while most donors give once or twice a year, it's possible to give up to six times).

There are a score of reasons why a person may need a blood donation. Accident and burn victims, transplant and cancer patients, children with blood disorders, and individuals suffering from sickle cell disease are just a few. If a woman with a healthy pregnancy encounters a problem during delivery, she may very well need a blood transfusion. What would happen if the blood was not there?

One donation can help save up to three lives. To sign up to donate blood at Arcadia's blood drive, please contact student life or sign up online at www.please-giveblood.org (sponsor code 5X56). Sign-up tables will also be outside of the dining hall on the days preceding the event. After all, less than 10 minutes of your time can make a lifetime of difference to someone in need of blood. What greater personal satisfaction can you get than that?

Dean of Students: "Stretch Your Horizons"

Dear Arcadia University Students:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to campus...whether it is for your first semester, your last year, or something in between. I am excited that the year has begun and that you are a member of our community. Arcadia University is a special community that values your input, opinions and experiences. Only you can decide how to build your daily experiences into a strong integrated college career. The decisions you make will combine to help you prepare for the future and develop your perspectives on the world. I hope that you will strive to experience as many of the varied opportunities available as possible.

As you look forward to this semester, you will see many chances to stretch your horizons. The Art Gallery exhibits, the University Distinguished Lecture series, College Day on the Parkway and weekly events around campus are just a few of the offerings that are right on your doorstep. Use My.Arcadia.edu to connect with others and to gather important information about dates and times of events. Every student can make a difference to others by being engaged in your coursework, campus life and community events. Be sure that you don't miss the event of the year...whatever it may be this year.

The editorial staffs of the Tower or Enthymion would love your participation; student organizations such as SGO and SPB welcome new members and are always open to new ideas and suggestions; the forty student organizations have many opportunities for membership and involvement; and, if you haven't found just the right organization, think about starting a new one. This is also a very important year for our country. Getting involved in discussing the issues surrounding the presidential election, learning about the issues and, most importantly, voting, are all ways to be engaged.

Last year I wrote to the Tower because I had noticed how involved Arcadia students had become during the course of the year. So far this year attendance at events suggests the trend has continued. Many events are scheduled for the next few weeks, so you have the chance to start off this year getting fully involved - be sure to do it NOW!

I look forward to seeing you around campus and wish each of you a wonderful year!!

Sincerely,
Jan Walbert
Vice President for Student Affairs and Dean of Students

The restaurant's namesake recently passed away, but his legacy continues in the hands of his relatives. "We're always here," says Joe, with a smile. He's good at remembering a face and getting to know a customer, part of what makes Rocky's a favorite local joint. "We like to keep things simple," he says about the food. Keeping it simple helps keep the prices low, but the portions hearty. If you like cheese steaks, then try the House Special, double everything: meat, cheese, sauce and onions. Hoagies, hot and cold sandwiches, clubs, milk shakes, breakfast sandwiches and muffins are also available. If you're a corn beef fan then you must order a Rueben, for then you too may attest to this Deli's perfection of sandwich artistry.

Hours: Mon-Thurs 6am-8pm; Fri 6am-8:30pm; Sat 6:30am-8pm.

Shanna's Homemade Ice Cream at Glenn Dobbins (215) 882-1298

Just beside Rizzo's and across from Rocky's you'll find a cool after dinner snack that's got the right ingredients. Stopping inside on a hot day, you'll find yourself tempted by a host of classic ice creams, water ices and milkshakes. 18 year-old Paul Tompkins might recommend the flavor after his own name, "Moose Tompkins," containing peanut-butter ribbon, vanilla and chocolate ice cream. Who couldn't resist Graham-Slam, a graham cracker-chocolate explosion? Sin away ice cream neophytes, sin away.

Hours: Mon-Sun 1-10 pm.

<http://www.halftone.org/elcys/menu.html>

For a true café experience, this is the place to go. Going on 4 years old, Elcy's is the brainchild of a former Arcadia student. The café offers a variety of foods, from Turkey Dijon Salad to the Viking - a chicken pesto sandwich loaded with mushrooms, tomatoes, and provolone. There's something for everyone: The Hangover Help, Kahlua Cappuccino. Plates range from $5-7, vegetarian menu included, specialized dishes made to your desire. Breakfast sandwiches also available, so if you're up early on Saturday you may want to stop in and stick around for the weekly Farmer's Market, taking place rain or shine. Of course there are fruit and dessert smoothies, and any number of delicious, sweetened coffee drinks. Aspiring poets come find a voice at the Wednesday night OPEN MIC; musicians and fans look for music acts Friday and Saturday.

Hours: Mon-Fri 5:45 am-4:30 pm; Wed 5:45 am-9:00 pm; Saturday 8:00 am-3:00 pm; Sun Closed. Delivery available 11-2 pm.

Anne's Kitchen Table at 516 Jefferson Ave (215) 576-1274

Offering a selection of gourmet soups, salads, panini, pastries, made to order, dine in or take out. Located on the side street by Glenside Hardware (To the right coming down Easton from Arcadia). Not yet reviewed, but rumored to be excellent. And they deliver.

Hours: Mon-Fri 8am-5:30pm; Sat 9am-4pm.

The Blue Comet Bar and Grill at 106 S Easton Rd (215) 572-9780

Students looking to get a taste of nightlife need not travel to Philly. Look down Easton road to this hoppin' rockabilly bar for a truly rockin' good time. Much like a constant twilight, the joint is reminiscent of a Dennis Hopper painting, complete with antique registers. Let the all black and silver interior draw you into its depth, and then study the pictures and memorabilia lining the walls. Order a Peanut Butter and Bacon Burger, which come highly recommended by the regulars. Notice the TV, off, with a note: TALK TO THE PERSON NEXT TO YOU. Can't find the right thing to say? You're in college, wow them with statistics...GPA's, SGO's, STD's, VIP's...and if you can't, then order another, and stumble back home. It's that close.

Hours: Mon-Sat 11 am-2am. Sun 3pm-12. Featuring live music Saturdays (Tommy Conwell) and Sundays (Rockabilly); Happy hour 5-7 pm Mon-Friday, dollar drafts and free wings.

Coming up: The Rockats Sept 12; Razorbacks Sept 19.

worth mentioning for special occasions. Next time the parents are in town, or that anniversary dinner, maybe you'll find the pub atmosphere inviting.

The Pizza Box at 43 Limekiln Pike (215) 576-5281

For portions larger than you can imagine, step inside the Pizza Box. The small Stromboli feeds two-three people, and a medium is enough for your family and friends. Large would be good for a hall meeting. A special feature is the Celebrity Pizza (place order one hour in advance). They also offer sandwiches within a $6 price range. Pies begin at $12. and slices start at $1.65. Parking around back. Eat inside or out.

Hours: Mon-Thurs 10am-10pm; Fri & Sat 10am-10:30pm; Sun 11am-10pm.

Michael's Family Restaurant (215) 887-2545

If you haven't looked across the street yet, I don't know if you can be helped...But there is, conveniently, a 24 hour diner that serves practically everything. Greek salad, grilled cheese, fish and steak entrées, and even Nova Lox (dare you to try it) don't even begin to describe the four-page menu.

Produce Junction at 265 S Easton Rd (215) 572-8829

A fruit and vegetable intersection selling in bulk at low costs that all vegetarians should be familiar with. Fast paced market demands you know what to get, don't be surprised if they hurry you along-just know what you want.

Hours: Mon-Fri 8am-6pm; Sat 8am-5:30pm; Sun 8am-4pm.

Hair and Hygiene

One thing you may forget to do since mother isn't around to nag you, is remember to get a haircut, but for those so inclined fortunate, and if that doesn't the good conversation will. No appointment necessary. Stop in Tuesday or Wednesday for negotiated student discounts.

Hours: Tues-Fri 9am-5pm; Sat 9am-2pm.

years experience guarantees a fine finish. Located across from Rizzo's.

Hours: Wed-Sat 11am-6 or 7 pm; Sat 10am-3:30pm.

Lovely Nails at 130 Easton Rd (215) 576-1716

Owned and operated by a kindly Vietnamese couple for 10 years. Specializing in silk wraps, a process sure to keep your nails healthy, especially good for brittle or dry kinds. 1st time silk wraps $40; $20 after. Also, nail polishes, manicures, and all your favorites.

Hours: Mon-Fri 9am-5:30pm; Sat 9am-5pm.

Clothes

Then there's clothes, bric-a-brac, and more clothes. Look no further than these stores:

Virginia's Thrift Etc... at 136 S. Easton Rd (215) 887-0967

An eclectic thrift store, nearby and affordable. Since 1983 Virginia herself has been scrutinizing over every piece consigned, making sure you only get the best second hand material. "I wield an iron stick, but business is business," she says of her selection habits. Don't bring this former English major junk; her love for mystery novels proves her senses keen. Offering everything from lamps, plates, and jewelry, to chairs, jeans and shirts-inexpensive and up to date.

Hours: Mon-Thurs 10am-5:30pm; Fri 10am-6pm; Sat 10am-5pm.

Thrift Collectables (215) 887-2273

New owner Dorothy White vows this year, "Just to be here." And if you like clothing then you should be here too. This is the only thrift store you'll ever see a Buddhist monk shopping in. Even the immaterialist cannot refute a little gain at such low costs. Look for summer clearance sales going on right now. Men's and Women's clothing.

Hours: Tues-Sun 10am-5pm.

New Life Thrift Store at 800 N Easton Rd (215) 886-8619

There's a destination a little down the road, and it's an even bigger thrift store. Offering a nice selection of men's and women's clothing, furniture, books, and chachka. There's even a Retro Room that upon stepping in transports you back to 1969. Groovy, huh?

Hours: Mon-Sat 9am-5pm, Wed until 7pm.

Entertainment

Without traveling too far, there's a lot to do.

Following are some recommendations to get out and into culture.

Keswick Theater at Easton Rd. and Keswick Aves (215) 572-7650 <http://www.keswicktheater.com>

One of Glenside's best features, the Keswick has top name acts in an intimate setting. Check out the website for upcoming events. Group sales for groups of 20 or more are available. Some highlights: "A Day in His Life" celebrating John Lennon, Sat Oct 9; Joe Satriani Thurs, October 14; The Legend of Sleepy Hollow Sat, Oct 30; Arlo Guthrie Sat, Nov 13. That's thanksgiving territory, and that means probably the only time you'll get to hear "Alice's Restaurant" live! And don't forget The Machine, Pink Floyd Tribute band in November.

Psychic Victoria at 225 Easton Rd (215) 884-1919

Feeling uneasy about an upcoming test or date? Well, Victoria can help you read your fate. She is a positive psychic who looks for the good in your energy, chakra, palm and tarot readings. A native of Richmond, Virginia and now a Glenside resident, Victoria discovered her gift at a very early age, proving over time that she has true talent. Some people can develop psychic powers, she says, but some people truly possess it. If school and life stresses are leaving you tired, depressed or overwhelmed, you may find comfort and answers to your questions here. Walk-ins and appointments.

This semester try not to complain too much about nothing to do! Go out and support your local retailers, eat something new, and get to know Glenside.

Glenside Pub at 122 S Easton Rd (215) 576-9354

A few steps down from the Blue Comet you'll find a quiet, more homely setting in the Glenside Pub. For fifty years the pub has been a hub of the community. You'll not be surprised to see people cozying up at the bar with a mug of their favorite and an ongoing conversation with friends. This Irish Cheers offers more upscale dining than most students can afford, but it is to good hygiene, there are several close by nail and hair treatments.

Unico Hair Studio at 120 E. Glenside Ave (215) 884-6597

Owned and operated by Susan Rolland, Unico has been clipping your locks for 12 years. Experienced staff Denise Hector, Lori Binder and Ms. Rolland will give you a quality cut to your specifications. Clean, bright atmosphere makes you feel com-

Philadelphia is rich in history, evident in the vast number of historic attractions and tours offered throughout the city and neighboring areas. From museums and galleries to reenactments and battlefields, there is something to spark the curiosity of everyone.

The Lights of Liberty Show, open through mid-October, gives you the opportunity to experience the American Revolution right where it happened - minus the danger and mayhem, of course. Hand-painted images projected onto buildings up to 50 feet high tell the story of the Revolution with the assistance of a moving musical score. Reservations are required. The ticket office can be reached at 215-LIBERTY and is open Monday-Saturday, 10 am to 6 pm. The event is located at 6th and Chestnut Streets.

Nearby, at 6th and Market Streets, you will find the Liberty Bell Center, home to the coveted Liberty Bell that rang out on July 8, 1776 from the tower of Independence Hall summoning citizens to hear the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence. Visible 24 hours a day, you can visit the Liberty Bell daily from 9 am to 5 pm and can reach the center at 215-597-

Reenactments abound in Philadelphia, having been the site of several battles and pivotal events in American history.

Second Sundays at the Battlefield offer reenactments at Brandywine Battlefield Park in Chadds Ford. There are also featured activities every week and special demonstrations. The park can be reached by calling 610-459-3342.

Old Fort Mifflin, the only fort in Philadelphia, is located by the International Airport and Delaware River. Guided tours are available as well as a wide range of activities, including canon and weapons demonstrations. And who knows - if you're lucky, perhaps you'll catch a glimpse of one of the many rumored ghosts on the grounds. The Fort is available at 215-685-4192 and tours run from Wednesdays to Sundays, 11, 1 and 3 pm. Hours vary, so call ahead.

If museums are more your forte, the Civil War Library and Museum at 1805 Pine Street displays an array of artifacts from the war. While not a tremendously extensive collection, the house museum is ideal for a short visit and can be reached at 215-735-8196.

Philly's famous National Constitution Center is an interactive museum dedicated to honor the ideas embodied in the US Constitution.

There are over 100 multimedia presentations, including an opportunity to vote for your favorite president of all time and watch an oath ceremony video. The center is located in the Independence Mall and can be reached at 215-923-0004.

If you're interested in tours, Philadelphia on FOOT offers unique tours to fit even the most obscure tastes. Founder of the organization, Ed Mauger, has earned the title of "Philadelphia's favorite colonial guide." Equipped with his in-depth knowledge of city history, architecture, and the streets and byways, Mauger specializes in tours for those who typically shun guided tours.

Romancing the Cobblestone, Taverns on the Green, and Four Funerals and a Wedding are only a few of the specialized tours offered.

Arcadia offers a lot more than just an education...

University Services Across Campus

Career Services

Career confusion—it's not all that unusual. Most people could think of several possibilities for their "life's work," and many have not one but several "careers" in a lifetime. So it's not surprising that there are so many students still looking for an answer to the question, "What am I going to do when I graduate?"

Career Services can help. From conversations with a career counselor, to workshops and group meetings, to online resources like "Facts on File" and the SIGI career planning system, there's lots of help available for students in any major. Be sure to attend the Career Services Block Party on September 29, drop by the office in Knight Hall for a cup of coffee and a snack, or just browse the Career Services web site. Appointments for individual consultations can be made by calling 215-572-2939.

Registrar Office

The Office of the Registrar is located in Taylor Hall, Room 103. This office is responsible for maintaining students' academic records (including hard copy of undergraduate student files), evaluation of transfer credit, coordination of the course schedule booklets, assignment of classrooms, registering students for courses, entering mid-term and final grades, coding and updating degree audits, evaluating students' records for graduation, processing transcripts, verifying student enrollment for insurance, veteran affairs, etc., coordination of course evaluations, generation of computer reports for various departments, and maintenance (coding and updating) of student information.

You may contact the office by telephone, fax or e-mail. Phone: (215) 572-2100 Fax: (215) 572-2126. E-mail: registrar@arcadia.edu

Our office hours during the fall and spring semesters are: Monday-Thursday: 8:30am - 7:00pm, Friday: 8:30am - 5:00pm

Community Service

Located in the bottom of Knight Hall across from Student Affairs, the Community Service Office provides the opportunity to "observe potential career fields, enhance professional skills, help those in need, and meet others with similar interests."

The office works to provide aid to the community through a variety of programs and activities. Annual events include November's Empty Bowls, March's Dr. Seuss Day, and the America Reads Program.

The Community Service Office has a variety of opportunities for those interested in volunteering. If you have any questions, feel free to call (215) 517-4000.

Student Affairs

The Student Affairs staff supports the co-curricular mission of Arcadia University by providing programs, services and educational opportunities that stimulate students' personal development, advance the pursuit of knowledge and contribute to the campus community.

Recognizing our role as educators and role models, staff members are committed to: developing collaborative effort with faculty and staff; fostering a campus climate in which differences are respected, valued and celebrated; supporting and facilitating student's moral and ethical development, encouraging personal interaction among members of the University's community, and creating opportunities for involvement outside the campus environment. (Student Affairs Mission Statement)

Student Affairs is located in the bottom of Knight Hall across from Community Service/Career Services. Any questions: (215) 572-2933.

Multicultural Affairs

The Multicultural Affairs office is located in Knight Hall, Suite 110. It provides institutional leadership in promoting awareness and understanding of differences among the members of the Arcadia University community. Programs are created to engage and empower students to address racial, cultural, religious, gender and sexual orientation differences that will help them with campus experiences. (Student Affairs Mission Statement) The office can be reached at: (215) 572-4088.

College Day on the Parkway Kicks off City Festival

Museums welcome new & returning students with free admission October 2

Press Release courtesy of Dominic Mercier, Press Officer of the Philadelphia Museum of Art

Philadelphia, PA (August 10, 2004) - The Philadelphia Museum of Art announced today that the 18th annual College Day on the Parkway is scheduled for Saturday, October 2, 2004. Offering free college student admission to 11 participating cultural institutions, College Day on the Parkway will launch the Campus Philly Kick Off (October 2 to 9), presented by the City of Philadelphia. The event coincides this year with the opening of the Museum's special exhibition African Art, African Voices, which college students will be able to visit free of charge. In addition to visiting the exhibition, students will enjoy performances and the African Marketplace on the Museum's East Terrace.

Attracting over 2,000 students for College Day on the Parkway last year, the Philadelphia Museum of Art organizes this annual event. Marla Shoemaker, the Museum's Senior Curator of Education said: "It is a distinct pleasure to work with the other participating institutions during this citywide effort to introduce new and returning college students to the wealth of arts and culture available in Philadelphia."

In addition to the opportunity to experience art, history, and science exhibitions for free, students are invited to enter a draw-

"Glory Daze", released in 1996, is sometimes referred to as the Animal House for the new generation, but after watching this movie over and over, I still feel there is no comparison, each movie is a classic all their own.

"Glory Daze" is about angst ridden college students, who know what it is to grow up, but refuse to let it happen.

College was the best times of their lives, but now they have to decide whether to hold on or move on.

Jack, played by Ben Affleck, wants nothing to do with growing up and having a wife and 2.5 kids, but instead he wants to stay in his college house (El Rancho Grande) with his college roommates and party.

El Rancho Grande is home to Jack (Ben Affleck), Rob (Sam Rockwell), Mickey (Vinnie DeRamus), Dennis (French Stewart) and Slosh (Vien Hong).

Other appearances by well known actors are Chelsea, played by Alyssa Milano and a short appearance by Matt Damon as Edgar Pudwhacker. In order to see/catch the Pudwhacker, you better pay close attention to the bar scene.

Each member of El Rancho has a stereotype placed over their heads.

Rob is the guy in the house who has the steady girlfriend and he has to get ready to make the big move with her, which is also moving closer to her mother. He plays the boyfriend who is afraid to meet "the mother".

On the other hand there is Mickey, who is afraid of girls, or at least afraid of rejection.

Ben Affleck and Alyssa Milano

Chelsea spends most of the movie chasing after Mickey. Will she ever get her guy?

Then there is Jack, who just got his heart stomped on by his now ex-lover. Jack's heart was not only smashed by love but by his art teacher Luther, played by John Rhys-Davies. Luther rips apart all that Jack feels he has worked so hard on in his final art project.

When reviewing Jack's art project Luther tells him, "I find it mottled, you get lost in abstractionism, and you lose sight in your real feelings. Art is not the vomiting up of angst; real art is subject to a real filtration system. All I see is 20th century American suburbia." Jack replies with, "I was raised in the suburbs, that is where I was born, that is what I am trying to express."

After Jack there is Slosh. Slosh came into El Rancho as a computer nerd with what a parent would call a bright future and by the end of the movie he is a poster boy for anarchy. He says, "I threw caution out the door and let life hit me full in the face. I am living life like how a f*cking dog rides in the car, head out the window, ears flapping in the wind."

Last but not least, there is Dennis, who is the college student "who changes his majors more than he changes his clothes." He is thought of in the movie as a professional student. Dennis has lived or horded over the house the longest. Dennis is faced with a decision involving his moral stature, which could guide his future, or bring it to a halt.

There are a few sudden metaphors that hit home, if you are able to relate to the movie. The one that really hits a chord is when Jack's and his father, played by Spalding Gray, are talking about his future and his ex-girlfriend. Jack is staring out the window at a fisherman who is beating a dead fish he reeled in, and a few minutes later Jack's father is giving him advice on getting his girlfriend back. His father tells him to either fish or cut the bait.

This could be real life for once played out on the screen.

If you are looking for a movie that is about cheap beer, angst ridden teens, loud parties, broken hearts, moving on with life and great punk rock music, then "Glory Daze" may just be the movie for you. This is the best time of the year for a movie about growing up and moving on, with everyone entering their first year of college or finishing their last years of college, before the real world.

"Glory Daze" unlike any other movie has a sound track that will blow you away. To give you an idea of what to expect here is just a few of the amazing bands Bouncing Souls, NOFX, The Vandals, Mr. T Experience, Assorted Jellybeans, and last Hepcat.

"Glory Daze" might just be one of the best independent films I came across while searching through a junk bin.

After watching this movie there just may be a third option between burning out and fading away.

It's Not Your Ordinary Love Story

Ben Maser

Executive Editor

The best movies this summer weren't huge blockbusters created by the major Hollywood Studios.

Instead they were small, limited release films that may not have been showing in your area. I'm talking about "Saved!", "Napoleon Dynamite", and "Garden State".

If any of these are still showing in a theater near you go see them! Don't just wait for them to come out on video, show the people who made these films some support and go to the theater. Plus, waiting is for suckers who don't want to have fun. They may not beat up any robots in these movies but Napoleon does have some "sweet nunchuck skills".

But I digress. The reason I am writing this is to tell you about one of these "totally sweet" movies, which is Garden State. Written, directed by, and starring Zack Braff (of TV's Scrubs) this is a story about living your life, finding love and holding on to it, and death tying everything together.

The story begins with the main character Andrew Largeman (Braff), who everybody calls Large, returning home to New Jersey for his mother's funeral.

Large is an actor in Hollywood, whose psychiatrist father has him on so many medications that he doesn't even know what he wants out of life anymore.

While home he meets Sam, played by Natalie Portman (the girl that Ozma song is about), who is very quirky, a habitual liar, has epilepsy, an unusual family, and is the best thing that ever happens to Large.

Large has a lot going on when he returns home. He must confront the fact that he may be responsible for his mother's young death. He also attempts to rebuild bonds between himself and his father.

All the while he spends time with his drugged-out friends from High School. One of whom is a gravedigger and another who is now rich after having invented "silent Velcro".

During his time home Large and Sam spend a lot of time getting to know each other, at one point finding an arc on the edge of a great abyss in a Jersey trash dump. They also find love with each other. It is that love that will give Large meaning in his life.

The story is very well done, with good characters, dialogue, and odd yet believable situations. There is a very strong theme of life and death throughout the movie. The death does not make the film seem dark or depressing though, rather serves to increase your appreciation for life and the love that you find in it. This film tells us to accept ourselves and others who we are and to embrace life when we find it.

Technically the movie is very well done. The camera work the mood of the film very well, for the most part very straight forward and simple. But during certain sequences it can be fantastically artful. In particular the party sequence near the beginning of the movie sticks out. It's a beautiful example of playing with the film speed to give things a very dream-like feel. As a director Braff has done a great job of capturing the mood of the characters, events, and locations of this film.

Another great thing about this movie is the soundtrack. It is not just some collection of whatever music is popular among the MTV crowd. It is a collection of great songs that fit the film perfectly featuring bands like the Shins and Coldplay plus a cover of the Postal Service. The placement of these songs in the film is impeccable. It's also the kind of soundtrack that you could listen to without seeing the movie and get a feel for what it is all about. This is one aspect of the film that I was particularly impressed by.

Overall this was a great movie that totally exceeded all of my expectations. It's funny, romantic, sad, and overall very touching. Braff is great all around. He has made a very memorable debut as a writer and director. I'd have to say Garden State is the best all-around film I saw this summer, if not this year. You owe it to yourself to check it out.

Is it time to bring back Tessie?

Kelly Navin

Entertainment Editor

I would have to disagree, but the Dropkick Murphys do give it a style all its own. Originally a Broadway classic, Tessie became the Boston Red Sox fight song from 1903-1918, but was not sung after 1918, until now.

When I first listened to this CD my initial reaction was not good, but with most new Cd's you have to give them a chance and that I did. After giving the CD a chance, I have to say Dropkick Murphys put some of their home town into the CD, yet again.

The first song is not their usual punk style, but keep in mind it is the old Boston Red Sox fight song. There was not much Dropkick Murphys could do with the song but give it their style and flair, which they did do. No song is a Dropkick Murphys song without the bagpipes.

After the first song the last three give back the energy and flair that Dropkick Murphys are known for.

Here are the tracks in descending order, Tessie, The fields of Athenry, Nutty, The Burden and last the original version of Tessie. There is also a bonus music video for Tessie.

The Fields of Athenry is off of Dropkick Murphys album, Blackout, which is out in stores now. After the first song, if you are sitting there saying to yourself this is not Dropkick Murphys, and then you will be pleased with The Fields of Athenry. This song takes you back to the beginning, the way I remember Dropkick Murphys bagpipes and all. Your foot will be tapping along in no time flat.

If you are a Dropkick Murphys fan you will want to add this to your collection.

For the people who are fair-weather fans, you will probably not like this CD or even give it a chance for that matter. Remember Dropkick Murphys have always stuck to their roots, which of course is Boston and this CD is no exception.

Profits from this CD go to Red Sox Foundation, for more information go to <http://www.royalrooters.com/>.

Real Tessie words,

*Tessie is a maiden with a sparkling eye,
Tessie is a maiden with a laugh,
Tessie doesn't know the meaning of a sigh,
Tessie's lots of fun and full of chaff,*

But sometimes we have a little quarrel we two,

*Tessie always turns her head away,
Then it's up to me to do as all boys do,
So I take her hand to mine and say,*

*Tessie you make me feel so sadly,
Why don't you turn around,
Tessie you know love you madly,
Babe my heart weighs a pound,
Don't blame me if I ever doubt you,
Tessie you are the only, only, only.*

PHILLY NIGHT LIFE

Kristen Riley

Editor-in-Chief

As with all major cities, Philadelphia has a happening nightlife. Of course, being a college student, you may very well have not yet reached that coveted age of 21. However, bars and clubs are only a small fraction of what the city offers in the midnight hour. With a little research, you'd be surprised what makes up the other half of Philly's nightlife.

While events at bars and clubs certainly cater to the 21-and-over crowd, but there are always those scenes that have the "17 to enter, 21 to drink" policy. On September 11th at the Cavanaugh's River Deck in Old City there is one of these such policies at an Innasense Reggae Dinner Concert. For reservations, call 215-629-7400.

In Manayunk at the Manayunk Brewery on September 23rd there will be a Celebrity Shoe Auction and Party. That's right - if you ever wondered what it would be like to walk a mile in your favorite celebrity's shoes, now you literally can. Auctions for the shoes are currently ongoing at mix957online.com and all proceeds go toward the American Cancer Society's Making Strides Against Breast Cancer foundation. For more information, call 215-482-8220.

On Saturday, September 18th, at 9 pm, the Shampoo Nightclub is holding its Back to School College Night: Roll Call, hosted by COOLJUNKIE.com, Philly's premiere nightlife magazine. The cost is $15 and you have to be 18 to get in, 21 to drink. The night is a special foam party and features hip-hop music. For more information, contact Vi at 610-931-2874.

Beyond the bars and clubs, the musical scene in Philadelphia is rich and diverse. From the Philadelphia Orchestra to the Electric Factory, the city is abounding in concert venues and musical tastes. For more information, visit phillymusic.com or refer to The Tower's concert listings in the Entertainment section.

Up to trying something a little different? How about hitting up an event sponsored by the Philadelphia Swing Dance Society? At www.swingdance.org, you can find a complete listing of the society's dance nights and skill levels. At the bottom of the webpage you can also link to other Philly area dance pages, including Waltz, Cajun, Ballroom, Folk, and more.

The Philadelphia Theatre district offers a variety of plays and musicals. Complete listings of ongoing productions, times, and costs can be found at www.theatrealliance.org. Student discounts are often available on tickets, so make sure to inquire.

So, on a night when the

Student Activities Board isn't sponsoring an event for the campus community, take a trip into the city. Try something new - you may surprise yourself at how much fun you have. More information about Philadelphia's nightlife is available at philly2nite.com.

Arcadia University's Statement on Civility

Arcadia University takes pride in having an open-minded, considerate, and respectful community. With the school year well underway, please keep in mind that our community should be a place where every person feels welcome and appreciated. Following is Arcadia University's Statement on Civility. Please take the time to read and remember this statement.

The members of the Arcadia University community encourage all individuals and groups to behave with civility. A community upholding civility respects the rights of individuals and groups. It is characterized by understanding and consideration of the differences among members of the community.

The diversity of the University community adds to the richness of campus life, and Arcadia University expects all members of the community to respect both differences and commonalities. The University acknowledges every community member's constitutional right to freedom of speech and freedom of inquiry. Arcadia University also affirms every community member's right to an environment that is free from harassment of any kind.

The University will not tolerate the subjection of another person, group or class of persons to inappropriate, abusive, threatening or demeaning actions at any time. (approved by: The Faculty, December 2000; SGO, April 2001; Staff Council, May 2001)

The membership of the Civility Group has identified the following as important elements for individuals' consideration in an effort to work toward civility in the Arcadia University community: respecting the dignity of all persons; respecting the rights and property of others; striving to learn from differences in people, ideas, and opinions; discouraging bigotry; demonstrating concern for others, their feelings, and their need for conditions that support their work and development; and acting with integrity.
